The Taste Of Quality is a BIPOC-Owned small business located in Toronto, Canada. It originally started off as MNR Catering and was founded back in January of 2019. As MNR Catering started to grow and expand, it ventured off into different categories besides catering and a year later that's when TTOQ came along. TTOQ comes from MNR Catering's slogan "The Taste Of Quality."

TTOQ's mission is to ensure each dish is memorable, from a single dinner to a catering order. It is our priority that our customers feel as if they are experiencing a phenomenal home cooked meal of their favourite dish. Through exceptional customer focus we are committed to delivering excellent service and quality foods for optimal value for all our customers. Our desire is to always be recognized as one of the leading organizations built on Good Ethics, Love, Family Values, Quality Food, Solid Governance and Exceptional Execution.

The Taste of Quality (TTOQ) couldn't of been a better way of describing the Authentic Caribbean Cuisine we offer. Michelle's love for food is rooted from the beautiful island of Jamaica. Michelle decided to take her passion for cooking to the next level by opening her very own business. Growing up in a Jamaican household, Michelle was no stranger to the kitchen. Cooking from the tender age of 7 Michelle has acquired many skills over the years which has resulted into plenty of mouth-watering delicious meals, that is guaranteed to leave your taste buds tingling and requesting for more!

Today with over two decades of experience, Michelle has become even more passionate about her talent. TTOQ offers Single Dinners, Catering, Meal Preps, Seasonings, and Sauces. Leave the cooking to Michelle, you won't be disappointed.
